

Use objective cases after these words:-

(Because all these words act as prepositions or prepositional phrases)

Between, with, besides, including, excluding, but,
like, unlike, together with, along with, as well as,
and not, in addition to, rather than, accompanied by,
no less than, nothing but, etc.

Between you and I, Aman sir is very rude and arrogant.

Everybody except he was present at the party.

They have invited all of them but she to the party.

All his brothers like he are very smart and intelligent.

Karan's father will not let him and I go to Delhi.

Use possessive cases of adjectives or nouns
before gerunds.

My father doesn't like me going to the cinema.

She does not mind us coming late in the class.

Shubham does not like Shilpa talking to Shulabh.

We have never seen him behaving badly with anyone.

When we entered the room, we found him lying on the floor.

Note:- Comparison must be in same category
(subject – subject) and (object – object)

Karan is smarter than me so you should select him.

Simile:- as + adjective/adverb + as Radhika is as nice/nicely as Roshni.

Radhika behaves as nice/nicely as Roshni.

Radhika behaves like she/her.

You are as good as him so don't worry
and deliver the speech.

I don't think that Rajesh is smart like him.

Mohan trusts me more than he/him.

Ajay knows them better than I/me.

Kunal trusts him more than I/me so he gave the bag
that had money to him and not me.

She can speak English more fluently than I/me.

He knows us more than you do/you.

She needs this seat more than you / you do because she is carrying a baby.